FIRST JOB? START YOUR FINANCIAL WELL-BEING RIGHT AWAY

Are you amongst the set of people who are new to the corporate world? The thought of having your own desk, which you have always dreamt of since day one of entering college, the first pay check, the feeling of not being dependent on anyone, anymore is indeed thrilling. And the day when you actually land up on that desk is even more exciting, it feels like you've conquered the world.

Work life is indeed exhilarating, especially in the initial years, but along with that also comes a dose of responsibility. Responsibility of planning for future, supporting family and then taking the first steps in this direction.

“START WHERE YOU ARE. USE WHAT YOU HAVE. DO WHAT YOU CAN.” - ARTHUR ASHE.

This line pretty much sums up to what a new earner should do. Doing basic financial planning in the early stages of your career will help you achieve the big goals of your life, your first car, your first house, your upgraded car, your grand wedding, much easier and faster. This is because of the time you have and the benefit of power of compounding which you can get. Say for example you are 20 years old and have just started your first job, and from the first month of your job itself you start an SIP of ₹10,000 per month. Assuming a modest rate of return of 12% per annum, at the age of 30, your investment's value would be worth ₹22.40 lacs, which means you are ready to make the down payment of your first house at the time when your friends may be still wondering where to start.

So how do you go about Saving and Investing at a time when the income is small, and when there are so many dreams to accomplish, things you could never do like going for trips with friends, giving your mum an expensive birthday gift, buying an expensive mobile, and wanting to pursue all of them now when you sensed financial freedom for the first time. Should you forgo all the things that you've always longed for and start saving like a saint? No, Financial Planning is not about making compromises, rather it's all about inculcating discipline and management.

We have listed few things that you must start doing when you start earning, which will set you on the right track for the rest of your life:

1 Get into the habit of Budgeting:

You are at a stage when money is your best friend as well as your worst enemy. This is the transition from the sounds of tingling of coins in your pocket to getting a regular monthly credit in your account. So, it becomes important that you exercise extreme care, start tracking your income and expenses from the beginning. Prepare a monthly budget keeping into account your expenses, write down the expenses, and at the end of the month, compare the actuals with budgeted. This exercise will call your attention to the areas where you overspent and it will help keep your impulsive spends under check.

2 Education Loan:

If you have taken an education loan then don't wait for the grace period to get over, start prepaying your installments from the first month's salary onwards. This is advised because the bank will start levying the interest from the time the loan is disbursed, so the sooner you repay, you are lightening the burden of debt from your shoulders.

3 Buy Insurance:

Medical costs are soaring, you may not be able to afford skyrocketing hospital bills if a medical emergency strikes you or a dependent. You may be covered under the group health insurance plan provided by your employer, but often the cover is not enough or may not include family members. So, it is prudent that you secure yourself adequately with a health insurance and accident insurance plan. Also the initial years of your career is a good time to buy a term plan for life cover since you are young and mostly healthy so the premiums will be very low.

4 Don't stock money in Savings account / FD:

This is a very important point, don't develop the custom of not looking at your saving account ever and let your money rot at a meager 3.5-4%. Even a fixed deposit is probably not the right thing to do. If there is a small surplus, invest it in market linked products which may be equity or debt depending on your risk and time horizon. Irrespective of the extent of savings, if invested in the right products and are let to grow, the return potential of the investment along with the compounding effect, can contribute significantly towards a future goal. Your financial advisor will guide you through the products and process for investing. So, from the very beginning, develop the practice of investing every extra penny you have.

5 Plan for your Long Term Goals:

You might be wondering that you have just stepped into your first real job, and we are advising you to plan for long term goals like house purchase or even retirement which may be like almost four decades away. Many people delay planning for long term goals believing there is ample time but actually this is the best time to start saving and investing for them, it's because first, the need is huge and they will probably be the most expensive goals of your life. Secondly, you have a lot of time in hand for power of compounding to exhibit it's full potential. So, the little amounts you save today will surprise you by growing into a huge corpus when you need it. You must contact a financial advisor and seek guidance regarding the products you should choose for investing.

6 Don't run away from Risk:

We all understand that investing in equity has its share of risks associated. However, the risk element arises when you have a shorter horizon, because equity is risky due to the market volatility and over longer periods the volatility is taken care of by the high returns delivered by equity. And if you really want to make big money, then equity by far is the best asset class to invest in. And lastly, at your age you have all the time in the world accompanied with minimal liabilities, to explore equity.

7 Enjoy your first salary:

The excitement of your first salary credit is unparalleled. You will never get this feeling again in your life, so make the most of it. Do what you've always wanted to do. You want to give your first salary to your parents, or you want to buy yourself an expensive phone, or you want to throw the grandest party ever to your buddies, Go Ahead! Your job is the reward of your efforts that have put throughout your school and college life. It is the first token of appreciation that you have received, celebrate your success. But remember, don't stretch the party period for too long, start saving and investing from your second salary onwards.

So, at the close of the passage, your first real job is a major milestone that you've achieved. There are many challenges yet to be faced and many milestones yet to be conquered, and you can achieve all of this if you go ahead with right financial planning and as early as you can. We wish you all the best for your future.

WORKING WOMEN: GET IN CHARGE OF YOUR FINANCES

Earlier, there was a clear demarcation between roles of men and women. Managing the house, including cleaning, cooking, washing, getting vegetables from the market, raising kids, was taken care of by women, while men were the breadwinners, and since men were responsible for bringing in money, all the decisions related to money also rested with them. However, over time, with greater exposure, rise in educated women, the roles of women especially have seen some transition. Many women have stepped out of the house, and are a part of the formal sector, contributing to maintaining and upgrading their family's lifestyle and also gratifying their career aspirations. However, one role that is still male dominated in most households, is Finances.

So, this article is dedicated to all those women, who are a part of the corporate world or are entrepreneurs, toiling hard for their financial independence, as well as managing the household, but often pass the buck to men when it comes to financial planning and taking investment decisions.

There are certain factors, pertaining to women, in this context, to be taken note of:

1 Life expectancy of women is higher than men, so it is likely that you are going to outlive your spouses.

2 Lower salaries than male counterparts.

3 Women have some unique needs which may require them to take breaks from jobs, like marriage, maternity break, need to take care of elderly parents, etc.

The above factors make it all the more essential for women to take care of their finances as well. It's high time that women take their finances in their own hands. It isn't just an advantage, it's a necessity to empower yourself by securing your future.

Here are certain tips which can help you manage your finances and strengthen your future:

Build Financial Confidence:

We may be ace engineers, excellent teachers, brilliant bankers, but about investing we become docile. Women at large have misconceptions about their abilities, they believe they cannot handle numbers, they won't understand the complex products, they doubt their capability of understanding finance and taking investment decisions. This attitude can be attributed largely to the traditional stereotyped mindset, lack of financial knowledge and confidence. So the first thing to do is switch to the "I can do it" attitude. Because it's all in the mind, if you think you can, you will find the way.

Strengthen your financial Knowledge:

A very important point, acquire know-how on finance & investments, it'll build your confidence, plus it'll help you in making sound financial decisions. There are various sources available which you can explore viz:

- ▶ Literature: You can research online, refer books and magazines, articles, blogs, TV, etc.
- ▶ You can ask your spouse, friends or acquaintances.
- ▶ You can seek information about investing basics and products from a Financial Advisor.

Prepare for Specific Goals:

Your Investments should be Goal Oriented. Sit with a financial advisor, identify specific goals, like investing for your child's higher education, gifting your husband an Audi on his 50th birthday, etc., and prepare a detailed plan for actualizing your goals. Women are generally more disciplined because of the inherent organized approach, so there are lesser chances of digression from the plan in women than men.

A very important point in this context is your goals are Individual & Collective, because most of your goals will overlap with your family's goals, so it's important that financial planning for such goals are mutual. You must participate in the family's financial planning process.

Safety Approach:

Generally, women are more conservative because they are more emotional, and hence more attached to their money, the idea of losing money is inconceivable, hence most women prefer investing in traditional fixed income instruments, like FD, NSC, PPF, etc. But the problem with such investments is, their return numbers are very small, mostly below 8% and if you deduct taxes, at this pace the investments may or may not be able to even catch up with inflation. So, for your long term goals don't be too cautious, you must look at Equity. Equity may be risky in the short run, but this risk is limited to short run only, over longer periods of time, Equity only grows and that too at a spectacular pace.

Prepare for Worst Case Scenarios:

There can be instances like loss of job, death of spouse, divorce, temporary or permanent disablement or any other emergency; most women are left stranded in such scenarios, because of lack of preparedness. Hence, it is our advise to all the women out there to be strong and prepare yourself mentally as well as financially for the worst. Also as mentioned above, the life expectancy of women is greater than men, so women must prepare a strong financial shell to take care of themselves on their own, for the last few years, when the medical costs will also be at their all time high.

Buy Insurance:

Get a Term Plan Losing you will not just leave your family in an emotional setback, it will also result in lesser monthly inflow and may hamper the goals that you may have for your family. So, having a term plan is not just essential for the men of the house, but also for women winning the bread for the house.

Your term insurance cover should be equal to 15 - 20 times your annual income. The premium rates for term insurance is lesser for women as compared to men because of lesser mortality rate.

Get Adequate Health Insurance:

Women are more susceptible to certain diseases like cancers and there are health / critical illness plans which cover women only diseases, available at affordable premiums. So, you must secure yourself with adequate health / critical illness covers along with the family health insurance.

To conclude, Indian women have reached great heights in every field today. Now it's time that women take care of their own finances, strengthen their and their family's future. We are good at bargaining with the sabjiwala, but don't know how to invest our savings; the latter will turn out to be more productive than the former.

Q. How do you identify investment opportunities for your funds? What are the key factors/elements you look for in any opportunity?

Answer: Most of our new ideas come up from primary research into the sector. We have picked many companies based on our interaction with their customers, distributors and employees. We have a checklist with quantitative and qualitative points to verify our thesis. A few hygiene factors we look at are positive operating cash flows, management drive and integrity, prudent capital allocation and above cost of capital return ratios. Moats, large opportunity size, growth prospects, investor discomfort and adverse news flows provide icing on the cake.

Q. When markets perform well, many investors often book profits. Is the current investment behaviour in markets similar to this view or is it contradictory?

Answer: Generally investors are quick to book profits and delay booking losses. This comes from a behavioral bias called pain avoiding psychological denial. When we book profit, it provides an immediate satisfaction of being right, while remaining invested could mean that we stand a chance of being wrong tomorrow. And investors like to avoid the possibility of that pain. This is a basic human behavior shaped by evolution and it requires a lot of psychological fortitude to correct. Throughout this bull run investors have waited for an opportunity to get in. Now that we have an opportunity, investors are concerned about further downside. However, I think investor behavior in this correction has been quite rational and many investors have used this correction as an opportunity to increase their allocation to equities.

Q. How do compare the rising clout of domestic funds vis-a-vis the FIIs? How has been their market participation in recent years?

Answer: FII ownership in BSE500 has been stable over the last 4 years at around 20-21%. In the same time DIIs have increased their stake from under 9% to about 11% today. In this, domestic mutual fund holdings are at an all time high of 6.4% while insurance cos have pared down their ownership.

Q. What is the right returns expectation investors should hold in equities henceforth for say a minimum holding period of 5 years?

Answer: Over the last 30 years, Sensex has delivered returns of close to 16% CAGR. On a rolling 5 year basis, the maximum return has been 46% CAGR and minimum has been -6% CAGR. Average 5 year CAGR during this period are 14%. We can see how volatile even 5 year returns have been. This makes it extremely difficult to hazard a guess on the next five year returns. To put things in context, Sensex has given returns of 12% in last 5 years, from 2013-2018, which is less than the average Sensex returns in last 30 years. This is despite the current optimism in equities and so called euphoria in valuations. I won't like to state a number for next five years however I believe that equities will continue to outperform other asset classes over the long term.

Q. What would be your advice to new investors wishing to invest in equity markets with medium to long term investment horizon?

Answer: New investors have to accept the volatility in this asset class. Unlike fixed income, real estate or gold, equity markets are subject to high volatility even in the medium term. As the above data show, equity markets can generate negative returns even over 5 years. However this is an asset class which has beaten almost every other asset class over the long term. New investors will have to learn to keep faith in equities especially during times of low returns.

Q. What is your fund house strategy for investment in the current market levels?

Answer: We do not have horses for courses strategy. We like to remain faithful to just one horse, which is our bottom up stock picking philosophy. We do not try to predict the macro, because we think that 1) It is impossible to do it consistently, 2) Even if we predict the macro, we do not know how much is already priced in. Hence we try to do what we think we are good at - bottom up stock picking. We believe that is a strategy which should work across markets and market levels.

MF NEWS

MF asset base from small towns up 38% in FY18

Smaller town's asset base surged to ₹4.27 lakh crore in 2017-18, up 38% from the preceding financial year due to a spirited investor awareness campaign by the industry and strong participation from retail investors. Mutual fund's assets under management (AUM) from B15 locations in the preceding fiscal was ₹3.09 lakh crore. Besides, an aggressive role played by mutual fund distribution platforms, demonetisation effect and strong participation from retail investors helped in the rise of asset base in smaller towns, also called B15 locations, according to industry expert. Moreover, investors are now shifting from traditional asset classes such as real estate and gold to financial asset class. Going by AMFI data, overall AUM of the mutual fund industry comprising 42 active players, surged 26% to ₹23.05 lakh crore in March-end. Currently, B15 towns account for nearly 19% of the total assets of the industry. About 62% of the AUM from B15 locations is in equity schemes. Top 15 cities or T15 have 36% of their total assets in equity.

New SIP registrations up 92% in FY18: CAMS

Increase in investor awareness and confidence in mutual funds have contributed to a 92% rise in registrations of new Systematic Investment Plan in the last financial year, a top official of CAMS Asset Management Services said. A Systematic Investment Plan allows customers to invest in mutual funds, creating wealth over a long period of time. Retail investors took to SIP route as the preferred option, leading to 1.15 crore new SIP registrations in FY2018, nearly 92% increase over the previous year, according to CAMS Deputy CEO, Anuj Kumar. During the last three years, the Mutual Fund SIP growth has been noteworthy. Elaborating, Kumar said monthly SIPs contribution doubled to over ₹7,000 crore in March 2018 as against ₹3,000 crore registered in April 2017. The contribution to SIP from Tier II to III cities was about 45%, offering a huge market opportunity, he said.

India to grow 7.2% this fisc, rising oil prices challenge: Deloitte

India's economic growth will accelerate to 7.2% in the current fiscal buoyed by manufacturing activity even as rising oil prices and high government debt remain a challenge, Deloitte has said. The agriculture sector is expected to grow higher than the estimated 2.1% in the current fiscal year on account of positive prospects on Rabi harvest and a normal monsoon, contributing significantly to the national GDP, said the India Economic Outlook Report 2018. The Indian economy grew 6.6% in the last fiscal as it battled the lingering effects of demonetisation in 2016. Deloitte's growth forecast for this fiscal is conservative compared to that of the Reserve Bank and the International Monetary Fund (IMF) which projected India to grow 7.4%, and Asian Development Bank and Fitch which estimated growth at 7.3%.

Modi government collects ₹7.41 trillion from GST in 2017-18

India collected ₹7.41 trillion in taxes in the first year of the Goods and Services Tax (GST) with revenues for a good part of four months not being accounted for because of the mid-year rollout and an accounting lag. The government had last reported a GST collection of ₹7.17 trillion for the first eight months since the new tax regime that subsumed 17 central and state taxes on sale of goods and rendering of services was rolled out in July. For the period ending March 31, 2018, the GST collection has been put at ₹7.41 trillion, a finance ministry statement said.

NEWS UPDATE

3.5 million jobs created between September and February, says NITI Aayog

Government think-tank NITI Aayog has said 3.53 million (35.3 lakh) new jobs were generated between September 2017 and February this year. As per data released by retirement fund body Employees Provident Fund Organisation (EPFO) and Pension Fund Regulatory Development Authority (PFRDA), 3.53 million (35.3 lakh) new payrolls were generated during this six-month period, a NITI Aayog statement said. The EPFO data shows that from September 2017 to February 2018, 3.1 million (31.10 lakh) new payroll additions were made across all age groups.

India's $35 billion government pension fund plans equities boost

India's $2.3 trillion equity market has surged in recent years and is about to get a new endorsement - from the nation's pension regulator. We are pressing the government to increase the equity proportion for government employees, and expect a favourable response very soon, from the Finance Ministry, Hemant Contractor, chairman of the Pension Fund Regulatory and Development Authority, said in an interview. The PFRDA has called for a bump to 50 percent, from 15% - to match the maximum for private sector pensions overseen by its National
