JANUARY 2018

NEW YEAR RESOLUTIONS FOR ASPIRING INVESTORS

Year 2017 has just ended, the party is over, it's time for new beginnings and to step into 2018 with a renewed resolve. It is time to make our New Year Resolutions for 2018.

"I'll eat at home", "I'll sleep on time", "I'll wake up early", "I'll lose weight", "I'll quit smoking", are the stereotyped promises we make to ourself every year. But most often, we fail to keep up to those promises. Most resolutions last a few days or maximum a couple of weeks, a 30% success rate can be considered fairly good. This happens because most often we either lack commitment or we overestimate our capacity.

A new year is an opportunity to kick start a new journey to an organized living and setting things on track. Let's encash this opportunity, by starting with the Right New Year Resolutions. The New Year Resolutions are not just for the next, but they are a part of the long term plan of goal achievement, they will set the track for 2018 as well as onwards.

This article primarily concentrates on bringing in prosperity this year, looking at new year resolutions from the financial angle. We have listed down some resolutions, which you can adopt so that they can be your stepping stones in your path to achieving financial success.

I'll set new benchmarks for myself:

Challenge yourself, because if you repeat history, keep doing the same things over and over, monotony will creep in, it will stagnate your life. Try to perform a level above your existing capacity. You want to be promoted to the position of a manager, your company expects you perform a level above from Assistant Manager, you have to prove your mettle, take a step to grow in life. Start by setting higher benchmarks for yourself in every sphere of life, be it professional, social, family life, health, or finance.

I'll invest with purpose:

We can achieve our goals only when we plan for them and give them time, along with money to grow. Emergency fund and short term cash requirements are the obvious exceptions. Our dreams need a long term commitment from our end. This year, resolve that you will find purpose and meaning for every investment decision you make. This will ensure that such decisions are taken after a good thought and research. It will also ensure that all your goals, objectives in life, find a place in your portfolio.

I'll be debt free this year:

Carrying debt is one of the worst burdens of life. But not every debt is equal in its weight. Debt for creation of assets like home and business loans, are welcome. However, there are also ones that you do not need and carry high costs. Promise yourself that you'll start paying off your debt religiously, starting with Personal loans and Credit card bills outstanding. Regular prepayment of long term loans like home and car loans can also help you wind up those loans sooner than planned. As a resolution, this one will work not only in saving interest costs but also in helping you with increased savings which can then be invested for wealth creation.

I'll pay my dues, EMIs and bills in time:

Paying your dues, regular EMIs and bills in time is not just financial prudence but also a test of your money management skills. Vouch that you'll pay your dues, EMIs and credit card bills in full (not just the minimum due) before the last date, to avoid any late payment charges and interest levies. Paying bills on time in fact even helps you improve your Credit Rating.

I will not get distracted:

Like your goals need time, they also need space. So, this year promise yourself that nothing can sway you away from your goals. No news, no tips from friends and neighbours can digress you from your commitment towards your goals. Staying true and committed to your financial goals and investments is something that needs constant reminders. Getting distracted from other goals in life is also very easy, especially when it comes to career, continuous learning and health goals. Staying away from distractions should be your resolution this year.

I'll learn from my previous year mistakes:

Track your 2017's performance and compare with the goals you had set for yourself last year. Carry out a detailed scrutiny of why you didn't achieve what you had planned, find out where exactly do you lack, or why did you exceed expectations, in case you did. This review will expose the flaws and give you an opportunity to fix them in this year. Finding mistakes in financial decisions you have made in the past, will help you gain experience more quickly and will teach you more than any magazine of news channel.

I'll prioritise investments over expenses:

This new year, resolve to change your mindset and attitude towards savings.

A simple change in approach to "Income (-) Saving = Expenses" from the conventional "Income - Expenses = Saving," will go a far way in building right investment habits. This approach can help you sort out your financial as well as personal life, where expenses are taken for granted.

I'll Strengthen my shell:

Having a good shell around you means have an adequate risk protection layer or insurance to safeguard you financially against any unfortunate event. This can be done in two ways: (i) having adequate emergency fund (ii) having adequate insurance, making sure you and your family are adequately covered at all times. The key word is adequate, both in terms of the amount of coverage and the scope of coverage. Ideally, one must have life, health and personal accident cover with maximum coverage possible.

I will read:

This year, promise yourself that you'll read meaningful books. Get over financial news channel anchors who claim to be investment gurus and preach about buying a good stock today and selling the same stock tomorrow, since it isn't good anymore. Start reading financial literature, one financial book a month, regular wealth magazines, articles, blogs, is the real enlightenment and will help you in managing your personal finances better in the long run. It will also ensure that you stay focused on your long term financial goals and have the right priorities in all financial matters.

I Pledge to spend time with friends & family:

The entire investing process will be futile if you don't have your loved ones by your side sharing your accomplishments. This year make efforts to get out of the virtual world, call your friends on their birthdays, a Whatsapp message was never enough. Spend time with your family, your kids, your friends, after all you'll take memories to your grave.

I'll work towards being a compassionate human being:

We are human beings, we were born to spread love and compassion. Vow to be good to others, to other humans, to animals; be modest; control your temper; learn to be happy in the smaller things of life and spread happiness all around. Compassion will eject stress and negative energy from your body and inject positivity.

I'll Explore more than ever:

Pledge to give more time to yourself, you are not a Robot, your day isn't programmed. Grab opportunities to be amidst nature, to appreciate beauty, to travel, carve out some space for yourself, a cup of hot coffee along with your favorite singer on the playlist in your balcony on a Saturday evening, can rejuvenate your senses like no luxury spa ever.

To Conclude:

Eat healthy, Exercise Regularly, Be stress free!

A healthy body and a sound soul will help you achieve your new year resolutions. And don't let your New Year Financial Resolutions fade away with your New Year Celebrations.

HAPPY INVESTING & HAVE A HAPPY & A PROSPEROUS NEW YEAR.

WHY DO YOU NEED A FINANCIAL ADVISOR

In our personal lives we have many people who guide us in the process of taking decisions. We have friends, families, consultants, experts and so on, whom we trust and who help us enrich our lives with their experience and knowledge. In our past, we had our family and friends who helped us in everything from choosing a career, a life partner, jobs and even friends. We shared a special relationship with our lawyers, accountants, advisors, doctors, jewelers, and even the next door shopkeeper. However, as the world is getting bigger, our approach to and our world of these consultants may be rapidly growing smaller. In general, today we have started to believe much more in ideas of independence, self-decision making and we love to cherish and shape our own identity.

Today we have easy availability of information, better education in finance and simplified, digital access to financial markets and products. People who are new to investing, try to gain all experience and wisdom from articles and information. With these at our hands, some of us begin to feel empowered and sometimes start questioning the importance and role of financial advisors. Many may be influenced by opinions and media blitzkrieg carried by the 'new age' change agents in the financial services industry. It is thus important, once again, to revisit the reasons why a financial advisor is important for you.

REASONS WHY DO YOU NEED A FINANCIAL ADVISOR

1. An Emotional Guide: In investing, emotions play the devil's role. If left unchecked, they can easily ruin one's entire financial life. Hence, there is so much talk of taking emotions out of financial decision making. A financial advisor does just that by playing the role of an emotional anchor in your financial journey. He will help you stick to your goals and financial plans, irrespective of whether markets are riding waves or are in dire straits. He/she will help in managing your emotions of greed, hope and fear in different market times. These are aspects most important when we consider a life-time of investments.

2. Helps you in Understanding Self: You often don't know what you don't know. A true financial advisor attempts to draw a full picture of you in financial terms. He aspires to see not only the present but also the future. Perhaps, he knows more about you than you know about yourself, if you have been honest with him. It is with the help of a financial advisor that you can dissect your financial life to minute details and plan for every small and big financial goal. He will be able to help you find and fill your weaknesses and build on your strengths as you progress in your life. He will even warn you of dangers and risks which you do not see. While undergoing a proper financial planning, the advisor will also help you spell out your financial goals and prioritise them as per your needs and risk profile. The entire process and experience can unravel new things for you.

3. Ensures Continuity in your Plans: It is one thing to make a plan and another to stick to it.

Paul Samuelson once said, "Investing should be more like watching paint dry or watching grass grow. If you want excitement, take $800 and go to Las Vegas." However, it is not easy as short term, immediate concerns often overshadow our long term commitments. A financial adviser is one who can help you maintain continuity in investing. More than anything else, it is the time in market rather than superior products or market timing that dictates returns in the long run. The financial advisor helps you to be patient and reap the full benefits of time and continuity in investments.

4. Source of Experience & Knowledge: A financial advisor often carries with him knowledge and wisdom that he has gained from being in the industry full time, for many years and his constant learning in the business. Financial services is an industry that requires regular studies and being updated of all new developments, be it regulations, market situations or product features. As individual investors, this may be too much & may come at the cost of your time, energy and money. Knowledge and wisdom is difficult to gather and should not be mistaken for information, which is readily available. Whenever you are lost or are facing any doubts or need any help in a financial decision, your financial advisor will be there for you.

5. Motivation to Excel: No one dives into a swimming pool eagerly for the first time, often it is either an instructor or a friend or a parent behind you who pushes you. Like any parent or teacher, a financial advisor has one hidden desire from each of his clients. He wants them to outgrow themselves and become bigger and better investors, in all aspects. Driven by this desire, a financial advisor would push you to do things you may not be fully prepared with. Whether it is controlling spending, forcing you to avoid unverified investments out of greed, making you save for your goals or forcing you to invest more, behind every decision is the desire for your long term well-being. Perhaps, most of the investors would not be even half of their portfolio worth today, had it not been for their financial advisors. He sets newer, higher goals and aspirations for you which you never thought were possible. The constant nagging, motivation, control and aspirational attitude bridges the gap between what you already are and what you can possibly be.

6. Life long Partner: A financial advisor sees you not just a single transaction driven customer, but as a potential, life long partner in your financial journey. The long term relationship is something that he values and expects from every good investor. For him you are never an individual, but a family that can extend into different generations. Hence, it is important for you to have a trust worthy financial advisor. This is a journey where he will be there in all ups and downs in your personal life (and markets) and will help you avoid and face various challenges in life. As the ultimate aim is financial well-being, a financial advisor will seek not only grow but also protect your wealth, always keeping the bigger picture in mind. As a mutually beneficial relationship, the financial advisor sees his well-being only conditional upon your well-being, to its fullest extent.

7. The obvious reasons: Well, the obvious reasons for which you think a financial advisor is required, actually comes last in our list. Reasons like operational support, saving time, consolidation of entire investment portfolio, keeping regular track of investments, regular portfolio review, timely communication of portfolio and transaction information, resolving any queries or issues in investments, keeping abreast with regulatory requirements, etc., are the many additional reasons why a financial advisor is needed. He helps you do all this which in turn helps you save a lot of time, hassles, efforts and worries. With the advent of technology and digital processes, a financial advisor uses them as his tools as a master, keeping control and managing them smartly to bring greater convenience for clients.

Conclusion

A financial advisor is more than the sum of all investment decisions that he can help you make in your life-time. How about starting with a simple question - Can you add the value of all decisions that you have 'not' taken because of your advisor? Can you value the portfolio he suggested against a portfolio you would have created in his absence? How about valuing the time you have remained invested or the additional investments you made, courtesy your advisor? The fact is, it is easier to think about making isolated investment decisions but difficult to imagine and create the bigger picture and keeping it relevant for years and years. A financial advisor not only helps you in deciding, but also helps you in deciding what to decide. Simply being with you, assuring you and helping you as you may 'need' and a promise for a life-time of same, goes a very long way in you being confident in your investment journey today. This new year, it is time to put a word of heartfelt thanks out to your financial advisor too in response to his new year wishes for your well-being.

Q1. The Q2-FY18 Q2 GDP growth figures was a welcome 6.3% over the previous quarter 5.7%. Can we now safely conclude that the tide has finally turned after Demo and GST impact and that the figures will be a climb here onwards?

Answer: Q2 GDP growth was in line with expectations of stability, post the temporary disruption in economic activity. This was against the backdrop of demonetization and implementation of Goods and Services Tax (GST). The Indian economy seems to be transitioning from the impact of economic reforms to a higher growth trajectory. In that context, it does seem that the worst is behind us. Industry wise data shows manufacturing growth accelerating to 7% from 1.2% in the previous quarter, suggesting normalization of industrial activity. However, part of it could be due to the early festive season. This sequential recovery in GDP growth is expected to continue in the second half of the year with momentum improving on account of a favorable base and pent up demand.

Q2. After disappointment in the Q1-FY18 earnings, the Q2-FY18 earnings did brought a change in mood with about 45% results above expectations. What has been your assessment of the corporate earnings, especially w.r.t. the GST impact?

Answer: September quarter was the first after GST rollout. Nevertheless, it was much better than the previous ones in terms of earnings growth and saw a continuation of the improving trend. Cyclical and some of the beaten down sectors like public sector banks, telecom etc delivered qualitatively better results. After several quarters, Nifty earnings saw double digit growth and positive surprises out-numbered disappointments. This improved performance could be partly attributed to restocking and the early onset of festive season. However, I believe that corporate earnings will improve further in the second half of the year.

Q3. The government has been pro-actively working to make GST process simpler and also has reduced rates. What your assessment on GST adoption and acceptance, especially in the MSMEs and the unorganised segments of the economy?

Answer: From the numbers released by the government so far, it looks like compliance has been low. Activity levels too were subdued as businesses adjusted to the new regime. Like any new tax regime, the first year of adoption generally sees less compliance. There have been teething troubles, confusion on rates, lack of preparedness, etc. The MSME segment seems to have taken the bigger hit as they were probably not ready for such a change. However, with the government working to resolve the issues and correcting rates proactively, I believe implementation will get streamlined over the next few quarters and the benefits will be more visible. The unorganized sector has been impacted the most, given that they were working with a significant tax advantage. The shift from unorganized to the organized segment has begun, though it is a gradual process.

Q4. What are your views on current market valuations especially w.r.t. the large cap and mid cap space? What would you suggest for a person looking to invest fresh money at this time?

Answer: Current market valuations seem high due to the fact that earnings growth has been very subdued for some time now. In fact, earnings growth of corporate India is probably at its lowest level. The ratio of corporate profitability to GDP is at a multi-year low. Nonetheless, the market has moved up on the back of a favourable global equity market environment and expectations of earnings recovery. Increased liquidity in the market from domestic investors has resulted in valuations moving up even though earnings have not caught up. Given the higher risk appetite and strong surge in domestic investor liquidity, midcaps have done much better than large caps and this is reflected in the valuations. Hence the risk – reward equation in the short term from the midcap index may not be entirely in favor. Nevertheless, midcaps have outperformed large caps over longer time horizons, given the phase of development of the economy and evolving market efficiency. For an investor wanting to invest fresh money, he should have a five to ten year time horizon in mind. I would continue to be more positive on the midcap side.

Q5. What is your sectoral outlook? Which are the three sectors you will be more interested in and three which you would like avoid at this point of time?

Answer: Globally, in line with improving economic growth conditions, cyclical sectors seem to be gaining as a theme. The Indian market is also reflecting similar trends. Some of the defensive sectors like IT and pharmaceuticals are facing challenges which could continue for some more time and their growth rates are likely to remain low. The consumer staples sector, though steady, is at heady valuations. The Indian economy seems to have started improving from the trough in terms of growth. In line with this thesis, I would be more positive on the cyclical sectors, both domestic and global. Having said this, I believe the market continues to reward good investment ideas. Adopting a bottom up stock specific approach to investing would be better.

Q6. What is the investment and cash strategy followed by your fund-house in present market scenario? Are you looking for new opportunities or are holding on to existing bets?

Answer: We do not use cash as a strategy. In any market condition, we look for opportunities all the time and hence cash is held only to take advantage of such opportunities when needed. At the same time if existing bets offer potential, we hold on to them and are happy to increase weightage.

Mutual fund assets surge to ₹ 21.79 lakh crore in November

Driven by hopes of an economic recovery and lack of alternate investment avenues, investors continued to add money to mutual funds in November. As per data from AMFI, investors put in ₹ 1.26 lakh crore to mutual funds, driving industry assets under management to an all-time high of ₹ 21.79 lakh crore. Equity-oriented mutual fund schemes (including arbitrage funds), balanced funds and ELSS schemes saw net inflows of ₹27,922 crore during the month. Of this, equity-oriented funds received ₹ 20,308 crore and hybrid schemes received ₹ 7,614 crore. This is higher than the previous month inflow of ₹ 21,900 crore and is the second highest monthly inflow after August where such schemes received ₹ 29,145 crore. Cumulatively in the first eight months of the financial year, these schemes have received inflows of ₹ 173,195 crore. The momentum of flows from investors continues to be strong. They continue to participate in capital markets by increasing allocation towards mutual funds, says A Balasubramaniam, CEO, Aditya Birla Sun Life Mutual Fund.

Sebi may put 10% cross-shareholding cap in mutual funds

To avoid the potential conflict of interest, markets regulator Sebi is considering to put a 10 per cent cross-shareholding cap in mutual funds, senior officials said. The new measure may have an impact on the shareholding pattern of UTI Asset Management Company (AMC). State Bank of India (SBI), Punjab National Bank (PNB), Bank of Baroda (BoB) and Life Insurance Corporation (LIC) are having their own mutual funds and at the same time they hold 18.24 per cent stake each in UTI AMC. Under the proposal, any shareholder owning at least 10 per cent stake in an AMC will not be allowed to have a 10 per cent or more stake in another mutual fund house operating in the country. Further, a sponsor of a mutual fund, its associates, group company and its asset management company will be restricted from holding 10 per cent or more stake in a rival AMC. The new norms are aimed at avoiding any conflict of interest and help in strengthening the governance structure for mutual funds.

India to become world's fifth largest economy in 2018 : CEBR

India looks set to leapfrog Britain and France next year to become the world's fifth-largest economy in dollar terms, a report showed. The Centre for Economics and Business Research (CEBR) consultancy's 2018 World Economic League Table painted an upbeat view of the global economy, boosted by cheap energy and technology prices. India's ascent is part of a trend that will see Asian economies increasingly dominate the top 10 largest economies over the next 15 years. China is likely to overtake the United States as the world's No.1 economy in 2032, CEBR said.

Pharma companies revenues seen growing at 9% over next 3 years: Crisil

Robust domestic demand and rising need for complex products in the West will help domestic pharma players log in a 9 per cent revenue growth with healthy cash flows over the next three years, offsetting headwinds in exports and rising competition, says a report. Revenue of domestic pharma companies is seen growing at 9 per cent per annum over the next three fiscal years ending 2020. Exports, which account for nearly 45 per cent of industry revenue, will see another year of a tepid one per cent growth in fiscal 2018, but recovering thereafter, Crisil said in a report.

India likely to be $6.5-7 trn economy by 2030: PM-EAC chairman

India is expected to be a $6.5-7 trillion economy by 2030, and at the current exchange rate it would touch $10 trillion by 2035-40, Chairman of the Economic Advisory Council to the Prime Minister (EAC-PM) Bibek Debroy has said. The per capita income in India by 2030 will, however, be just USD 4,000, still less than many other countries, he said. In the year 2030, India's national income will be around USD 6.5-7 trillion. If exchange rate remains what it is today then by 2035-40, India will be $10 trillion economy. India will be remarkably different country as the size of its economy will enhance the country's role in global affairs.

India's online retail space grew by 23% in 2017, pace to accelerate in 2018

India's e-commerce firms had a reason to cheer in 2017 as online retail grew sharply over the previous year and is projected to accelerate its growth trajectory in 2018. In 2017, online retail grew to $17.8 billion in gross merchandise value (GMV) from $14.5 billion last year, a 23 per cent increase, according to Livemint report while citing RedSeer Management Consulting, a market research and consulting firm. According to the financial daily, the country's e-commerce market picked up sharply in the second half of 2017 after a period of nearly 18 months. The report added that the pickup was driven by Flipkart Ltd and Amazon India, which both saw strong growth, and Paytm E-Commerce, the new entrant in the space.

April-Nov fiscal deficit hits 112% of full-year target

India reported a fiscal deficit of Rs 6.12 lakh crore ($95.77 billion) for April-November or 112 per cent of the budgeted target for the current financial year that ends in March. Net tax receipts in the first eight months of 2017/18 financial year were Rs 6.99 lakh crore ($109.39 billion), government data showed. The finance ministry has said it would borrow an additional Rs 50,000 crore ($7.82 billion) this financial year that could lead to it breaching its fiscal deficit target of 3.2 per cent of the gross domestic product.

India's cotton output set to rise 9% in FY18

India's cotton output is set to rise 9.3 per cent in 2017/18 but won't be the record high predicted by industry analysts as bollworm had caused damage in some regions, a government official has said. Overall production by India, the world's biggest cotton producer, could touch 37.7 million bales in the year that began in October, according to Kavita Gupta, India's textile commissioner. That would be up from 34.5 million bales produced in the 2016/17 marketing year, but almost 6 per cent lower than previous industry estimates for a record 40 million bales, each of 170 kg.
